

With more and more large-scaled buildings, with a more daring design, with a growing awareness that the safety of the public needs guarantying, a solid based and specialised advice in the aspects of fire are very important when setting up a construction project.

The need to involve experts already starts at the beginning of the project, before the plans are being drawn-up. The legislation is becoming more and more complex and extensive.

WFRGENT NV offers its knowledge and experience, mainly in the field of passive fire protection.
